HELD CORONER'S INQUEST

Jury Finds That Patrick Dailey Came to Death by Drowning in Rock River.

BURIAL TOMORROW AT 10 A. M.

Two Little Lives Pass Into the Great Beyond—Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sterling Lose Infant Child.

Coroner C. T. Smith came up yesterday afternoon from Amboy and impaneled a jury to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Patrick Daily. The foreman of the jury was J. M. McCleary, clerk Atty. H. R. Bartlett, while the other members were George A. DeLand, George F. Bishop, Charles McBride and W. B. Steel.

At 6 p. m. the first witness, Will Maloney, was sworn. He testified to having with Chris Nelson searched for the body with grappling irons Monday morning until noon. At noon the two landed and on the rocks below the wire screen factory water wheel found what was supposed to be the cob pipe of the deceased. The search was continued after dinner. About 3 o'clock George Robertson got in the boat as it was partly pulled up on shore. He had a four-foot section of bamboo pole and was prodding around in the water at the side of the boat when he felt something yielding. He twisted the end of the stick and brought part of a red shirt to the surface. The grappling hooks were thrown in and caught under the chin of the body, bringing it to the surface. The dead man had a strong hold on an iron rod beneath the surface and it took considerable pulling to break the hold of the clamped fingers. The body was about ten feet from shore on the point of land projecting farthest out below the dam. As it would have been a hard place to get the body to the street it was placed in the boat and taken down near the bridge so that the undertaker had easy access to it.

George Robertson was sworn and corroborated the above account. He had seen the deceased about town. He was a quiet, peaceable person and did not drink to excess.

John Benjamin, Chris Nelson and Ed. Gleason also testified in the same strain as the above. The jury returned a verdict finding that Patrick Daily came to his death by drowning in Rock River on the evening of August 24 or the morning of August 25th.

Funeral Services Tomorrow.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Patrick Dailey will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Father Foley officiating. Burial will be at Oakwood cemetery.

The body of the unfortunate man was taken to the home of a sister, Mrs. Charles Spiller, corner of West Seventh street and Van Buren avenue where it now lies.

Mr. Dailey was born at Woosung thirty-five years ago, but was reared and spent his early manhood at Harmon. He attended the Harmon schools from which he graduated with honor. About fifteen years ago he came to Dixon where his honesty and industry gained him many friends. He was respected by all who knew him. His sudden loss comes as a severe blow to his brothers and sisters, who are: Mrs. Charles Spiller and Mrs. Michael O'Malley, a sister in Sterling, Mrs. John L. Dunden, and two brothers in Chicago, Michael and John Daily.

Parents Bereaved.

The infant daughter of Alderman and Mrs. James N. Sterling died yesterday afternoon at 3 p. m. The funeral services were held at the house on North Crawford avenue at 10 a. m. today, Rev. W. A. Phillips of the Methodist church officiating.

Death of Infant Child.

The 8-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boucher of South Dixon died this morning and the funeral will be held tomorrow.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Vacation Caused Decrease---Some of the Most Popular Books.

The vacation which will end this week has, during its three months' duration been responsible for a decrease in the number of books taken out in the juvenile classes. It would seem that the opposite of this might hold good, but it is a fact that the boys and girls put in their time amusing themselves in other ways than with books. The summer has proved that the following are the most popular books of a general character at the library:

Heroines of Fiction—William Dean Howells.
Life of Cecil Rhodes—Hensman.
Making of an American—Riis.
Tribulations of a Princess.
Lives of the Hunted—Seton Thompson.
Audrey—Johnson.
Fisherman's Luck—Van Dyke.
Education of An American Citizen—Hadley.
Life of Robert L. Stevenson—Balfour.
Martyrdom of An Empress.
Sailor's Log—Evans.
Principles of Western Civilization—Kidd.
Elizabeth and Her German Garden.
Boys of '76—Coffin.
Hudson's Law of Psychic Phenomena.
Innocents Abroad—Clemens.
Ranch Life and Hunting Trail—Roosevelt.
Washington, the Capitol City—Wilson.

There have been many out-of-town visitors at the library during the past month, from Iowa, Missouri, Idaho, Indiana, Ohio, etc. The total number of visitors so far is over ninety and there will undoubtedly be considerably over a hundred before the month ends. They are all outspoken in their praise of the beauty and utility of the institution.

BACHELORS BANQUET.

To Dine---Friday And Toast Guests of Honor.

Young bachelors and benedict members of the Bachelors' Club will dine at the hotel Nachusa on Friday evening August 29.

All members of both societies are requested to be present. Meeting will be called at 7:30 sharp.

Family Will Come.

Fred M. Underwood, the coffee man, has rented the house at the corner of Seventh street and Ottawa avenue and his family will arrive from Chicago Saturday. Mr. Underwood resided five years ago.

LABOR DAY AT AURORA

Many Hundreds of People Will Join Excursionists to That City if Day is Fair.

PROGRAM OF EXERCISES RECEIVED.

Free Vaudeville Performances, Free Dancing—Speeches by Hon. E. O. Brown and Hon. W. F. Cooling.

Many hundred of Dixon people are arranging to go to Aurora next Monday, the occasion being a grand celebration of Labor Day in that city. The speakers of the day are Hon. Edward Osgood Brown and Hon. Walter F. Cooling. They are well known orators and will undoubtedly please one and all of the vast audiences which will greet them.

Both morning and afternoon high class vaudeville performances will be given on the streets for the amusement of the public. In the dancing pavilions all who wish to "trip the light fantastic" may do so untrammbled by the demands for paltry cash. A picnic lunch will be served on the grounds for a small fee. A monster union parade is one of the attractions of the day and it will contain representatives from Elgin, Joliet, Dixon, Batavia, St. Charles, West Chicago and Aurora. It is expected that five thousand labor representatives alone will be present, besides the crowds of sight-seers and merry-makers.

A picnic will be held at Riverview Park. There will be a baseball game between the Spaldings and Aurora teams. Every effort will be made to entertain the crowds of visitors by the Aurora committees.

The Dixon excursion trains will leave at 6 and 6:30 a. m. respectively. The Watson-Plummer band will accompany the local labor unions and head their section of the parade. On the return the trains will leave at 7:30 and 10 o'clock.

Accident to Little Girl Monday.

Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock as little Florence Kernaghan, the 8-year-old daughter of W. J. Kernaghan and wife, 405 Galena avenue, was playing with other children in the back part of the yard, she fell a distance of some eight feet into the ditch which drains the south part of the city and runs along the back of the lots between Fourth and Fifth streets. Alighting on a pile of rocks which had been washed loose from the wall of the ditch during the flood last June, she cut two deep gashes in her forehead and received some painful bruises. The wounds in her face bled profusely, and soon the child was covered with blood. But she bore her hurts like a little hero, and submitted without a whimper to the surgeon's needle as he stitched up the cuts in her forehead. Today, while feeling pretty sore, she is as lively as a cricket.

May Fill Chicago Prelacy.

ROME, Aug 25—The appointment of a successor to Archbishop Feehan of Chicago is the chief difficulty which the congregation of the propaganda will have to face at the convocation which has been called by its prefect, Cardinal Gotti. It is expected that the pope will appoint Rt. Rev. James E. Quigley, bishop of Buffalo, to the post in spite of the latter's expressed preference for the see of Buffalo, but if this should not be done it is stated that the congregation will ask for a new list of candidates, neither Bishops Spalding of Peoria nor Muldoon, auxiliary of Chicago being thought desirable to the Vatican.

Northwestern Changes,

John J. Gleason, formerly night operator at Nelson, has been promoted to day operator at that place.

J. Case will hereafter act as night operator.

Thomas Dailey is now cashier at Freeport.

Will Move To Iowa.

J. W. Gilmore, wife and family are here visiting at the M. M. Avery home on Peoria avenue. Mr. Gilmore has sold out his property at Compton and will locate, at Algona, Iowa. The family will leave within several days for their new home.

Buys Property.

Louis Stephan, Jr., through the agency of Johnson & Avery, has purchased from Mrs. Barbara Stephan the west half of the building in which is located the Plymouth Clothing store and his own saloon business.

CERO-FRUTO
"An All-Day Food"
Wheat and Pure Fruit Combined

"Perfection" is a strong word to apply to a food product. It is not recklessly used, however, when applied to CERO-FRUTO because this IS perfect human food, possessing, as it does, one hundred per cent. nutrition. In other words, all of its solids are soluble in the juices of the stomach and therefore capable of being assimilated by old and young, weak and strong.

The name indicates its character. It is a carefully balanced combination of the choicest wheat berries and the purest of fresh fruit. The elaborate and complete processes to which both the wheat and the fruit are subjected eliminated the undesirable waste of each. CERO-FRUTO is sustaining, satisfying, delicious' healthful. It is not alone a breakfast food—it is adapted to any meal. Being predigested it is an ideal dish to be eaten for late supper. It may also be eaten with any digestible combination of foods without unpleasant effect.

CERO-FRUTO is garnished by nature. It contains more nutrition for the brain-worker the growing child and the working man than any other cereal product. Physicians universally recommend the liberal use of fruits to assure a perfect sterile condition of the stomach as they are especially rich in the choicest of all sugars—Levulose, or fruit sugar, which represents starch in a state of complete digestion.

CERO-FRUTO is thoroughly cooked, ready to eat, and is pure, crisp, healthful and nourishing. Sold by all grocers.

Samples sent free for the asking: Address:—

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Halls Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength to build up the constitution and assisting nature in doing it's work. ## GREAT ELECTRIC LINE

That Which Connects Elgin and Aurora with Chicago in Lightning Time.

RUNS FORTY-FIVE MILES AN HOUR

With the Intention of Making It 100 Before Long—Market for Broom Corn.

Wheaton, Ills., Aug. 26.—Beginning yesterday regular passenger trains are running between Aurora and the Fifty-second avenue terminus of the Garfield park branch of the Metropolitan elevated railway at Chicago, over the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago electric railway. This line, on which the motive power is electricity taken from a third rail, has been three years in construction, and has attracted much attention because of the solidity of the work on it and the promise that has been made by its management of extraordinary high speed.

Expects to Run 100 Miles an Hour.

Forty-five miles an hour, including stops, will be made at the start, and as soon as the track has settled into permanent condition sixty miles an hour, it is promised, will be made. Experiments will be carried on continually to determine the maximum speed consistent with safety and economical management, and a train is now being built for the road at Lynn, Mass., that is expected to travel 100 miles an hour.

Built Especially for Speed.

The road has been built especially for speed, and nothing that science or the ingenuity of man could evolve has been left undone to bring that condition about. It is well known to transportation people that while the machinery or motive power on a road is a great deal, everything really depends upon the roadbed and track over which the machinery moves. So the greatest experts in road-building and track-laying, and the most advanced electrical engineers in the United States have been employed.

Most Important of Its Kind.

It is claimed for this road that it is one of the most important suburban electric railway undertakings which have been attempted up to this time. It covers one of the most populous suburban districts in the neighborhood of Chicago, and with nearly 100 miles of its own track and direct connections with several other electric railways, the system will serve twenty cities and towns outside of Chicago, having an aggregate population of about 200,000.

MOVEMENT OF BROOM CORN

It Is Lively and the Prices from $100 to $125 for Each Ton.

Mattoon, Ills., Aug. 26.—The movement of broom corn has been quite liberal in the great central belt. Arcola brokers alone have shipped twenty cars, and there has been a lively movement of brush from this city and Charleston. This rate is not expected to last long, as the stock is not to be found in the warehouses or in the fields. Last week's shipments were billed at $100 and $125 per ton. Most of the orders were rush orders from eastern manufacturers, indicating that they are low in stock, their purchases being for the present needs, not for speculation or anticipation.

Advices from the most reliable authorities in Kansas give out that the yield in that state will be from 5,000 to 6,000 tons, although reports of drought and other minor causes from southwest Kansas state that the crop will not reach the yield of 1901. Some of the old brush is still on the market. The amount of acreage in that portion of Kansas is comparatively small, and will not cut much figure in the general result.

Has a Debt-Paying Record.

Galesburg, Ills., Aug. 26.—Attention is being directed in denominational circles in this part of the state to the phenomenal record made by Presiding Elder J. M. Ryan of the Galesburg district of the Methodist Episcopal church, in clearing churches of his district of debt. Not one of the ninety-eight Methodist churches of the district is now in debt.

Base Ballist Shoots a Man.

Peoria, Ills., Aug. 26.—Shortly before midnight yesterday Harry Vaughn, right fielder for the Milwaukee base ball team of the Western League, became entangled with W. Mitchell, proprietor of the Mitchell hotel, and in the melee that followed Vaughn shot Mitchell in the hand. The wound is not a serious one.

Wedded Fifty Years Ago.

Peoria, Ills., Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Boorn, who have been residents of Chicago since 1887, celebrated their golden wedding at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Giles, in this city. Boorn is a native of New York and Mrs. Boorn of Ohio. They were married in Peoria fifty years ago.

Like an Immense Jug.

Centralia, Ills., Aug. 26.—A cistern on the farm of Dr. Mackenzie went into the river with a landslide. The mason work remained unbroken, the water in the brick tank served as ballast and the cistern floated eight miles down stream to Water Landing, where it lodged.

Had Been Killed by a Train.

Centralia, Ills., Aug. 26.—The body of a stranger was found in the Illinois Central yards by trainmen. Apparently the man had been killed by a train. The only clew to his identity is the name "George Wilson, Kansas City," found on a scrap of paper in a pocket.

Wants a Divorce from His Wife.

Alton, Ills., Aug. 26.—George Keisel, a resident of Madison county, has filed a bill for divorce at Edwardsville against his wife, Mary E. Keisel, naming Isaac W. Cook, of Troy, as corespondent. Cook will fight the case.

Oldest Illinois Odd Fellow Dead.

Peoria, Ills., Aug. 26.—Thomas W. Keene, the oldest active Odd Fellow in Illinois, died at his home in Washington, Ills., early Sunday morning at the age of 80.

HARRY BUSHEY HEARD FROM.

Is at Fair View, South Dakota, and in Need of Money.

Isaac Weaver of Palmyra yesterday received a letter from Harry Bushey, who is wanted by relatives in Pennsylvania, as related in THE TELEGRAPH and other papers. It seems that the Frank alluded to is Frank Brame, who also came from Pennsylvania. The two boys struck up a friendship last spring and both staid at Mr. Weaver's for several days. It was while there, Mr. Weaver says, that Harry loaned the money. Mr. Bushey will probably leave for Pennsylvania immediately upon receipt of the loan. The letter is as follows:

FAIR VIEW, S. D., Aug. 23, '02.

DEAR SIR:—Well, I suppose you heard the report of my father's death. He died July 29th and I did not know of it until August 22, so I would ask you whether Frank is there yet and if he is, please tell him to send me that money which he owes me. I wrote to him before and I received no answer. I would like to go home very much for my mother is sick. Please write and let me know whether or not Frank is there, and if he is talk to him and tell him to send me the money.

Yours in sorrow,

HARRY BUSHEY.

Will Have Charge of Athletes.

Frank C. Brookner will succeed John Fee as physical director of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, and will commence his work the first of October. Mr. Brookner has perhaps had more experience in this line of work than any other man in Illinois. Many years ago he started the first permanent school of instruction in physical culture in Dixon, and carried forward very successful a number of classes in calisthenics. He subsequently was for nine years physical instructor in the gymnasium connected with the Illinois steel works at Joliet. He is a Dixon boy to the manor born, and needs no further introduction at our hands.

American May Be Chosen.

Church circles at New Orleans, La., are greatly pleased by the news from Rome that Rt. Rev. James E. Blenk may be chosen to fill the post of apostolic delegate to the Philippines. At the present time Bishop Blenk occupies the see of Porto Rico, having been consecrated to that office three years ago. Bishop Blenk is a native of New Orleans and for some years was in charge of one of the city parishes. The hope has long been expressed that an American be selected for the post.

Taken to Apple River.

A short service was held at 8 o'clock this morning, at the late home, over the remains of Robert G. Suggitt, who died yesterday morning at No. 1205 Third street. The body was then taken to the Illinois Central depot and sent to Apple River. Those who went to Apple River to attend the services there were Mrs. R. G. Suggitt and brother, J. R. Runton of Chapin, Iowa, Will and Ernest Suggitt.

Tramp Piano Tuners.

Beware of trusting tramp piano tuners to do the work who do a very poor work and charge treble the price they should therefor. Such an one has victimized several well known persons in this city and now the latter are exceedingly wrathy over the matter. It pays to patronize home industry.

Iowa Lutheran Synod.

In the afternoon with a mission hymn the meeting was opened. The German Mannerchor gave several hymns before and between the addresses of which the first was delivered by Rev. J. Reinhardt.

Through the various fields of christian work he led us; foreign and home missions and their success was considered in the light of love, to which we are called by Jesus through the Holy Ghost. Prof. Sadtler, Ph. D., connected his speech with the story of King Hezekiah, how he was afraid to die; while, when he recovered by the Lord's word, by showing the messengers of the King of Babylon his treasury and things of art, instead of praising the Lord for the deliverance. The nations come and inquire of us about the secret of our progress in life; the open door politic of U. S. is progressing we send out our commercial connection; also we leave an impression upon those nations. Speaker referred to China, Japan, Africa, etc., with the rapid spread of Christianity, and stated that India alone has 1,520,000 students in colleges and universities, of which many are Christian schools. An educated man in India gathered all from ancient tradition, literature and law, which should be better than christanity; but he said later that it lacks the praises of a Christ. There is a doctrine that everything is God; that even man is God, and why then shall a man worship, when himself is to be worshipped. A Hindoo said, you come to us with a new religion, and ours has stood for so many centuries longer. Yes, if you were like your Christ, the whole of India would be open to you. Like we carry our selfish interest let us push forth christianity.

An address in the German language by Rev. Reinhardt was very warm hearted and his voice reached every part of the auditorium. On home missions he spoke in a spiritual way, that we felt the necessity of this great work. We can help, we have the power, or should it be said of us: "Because of your unbelieve ye could not."

The mission among Israelities is not so much known, because it is too new for many of us, and yet it is so important, and the time of the Lord's providence seems to be fulfilled that Israel shall come and worship the Messiah, as Rev. Zeilinger brought before the audience in the English language, and those who did not hear him, missed something that every Christian ought to know. What has been the matter with us, he said, that we have been asleep so long. We have done much which we ought not to have done, and have much left to do. We humbly confess our faults. Many Jews excuse themselves on account of our hypocrasy and emptiness; but yet there is a light burning and has been burning —the hope of the Jews.

Israel is without a friend, home, constitution, sacrifice; a nation scattered among the nations. We cannot think of Jerusalem without a temple, a sacrifice, a high priest. Yet for nineteen centuries no fire has been kindled upon her altar. Is Israel's doom forever to remain? Many have gone to materialism, panthoism and the so-called reformal.

O, there is a help; and already it begins to dawn. What have we done with our Lazarus before our door? Small beginnings and comparatively good fruit grows. Rev. Berkemire in a few apt remarks presented these four addresses as a beautiful boquet which he tied with a double string, two questions: Where are you? and where is your brother? God knows where we are, but he asks this question to remind us of our standing. We are all missionaries in this world and either leading our brethren to God or to the devil, to heaven or to hell. It seems as if in our age the women are the christians and the men are vice-christians. Thus we may take home this boquet and show it to others.

Rev. Berkemirer is not only a brilliant speaker in the German but also in the English language and full of wit and humor. The collections exceeded $140 for mission work.

An Aged Rock Falls Citizen Lost.

George Wetzell, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Rock Falls, has disappeared from home. All efforts to find his whereabouts have proved fruitless so far. The Chicago police force are looking into the matter and working in connection with the force of Milwaukee in an effort to find the missing man.

Wetzell is eighty-three years of age. August 19 he went to Whitefish bay on the excursion. He took with him $100 besides some small change.

On the evening of that day he was found wandering about the streets of Milwaukee by the police. He was taken to the police station. He stated that he had no money, but gave his name and address. He stated that he wished to go to Chicago, where he had friends and relatives. The police force gave him money and put him on the train for Chicago. That was the last seen of him. Wetzell's relatives know of no one in Chicago with whom he was acquainted.

Stole Worthless Papers and Left Good Money.

The residence of Mrs. Beile Robinson of Rock Falls was burglarized a few days ago during her absence from home. The parties ransacked the house, and one of the strange features connected with the robbery is the fact that they did not molest some money, $18, which was lying on a table. They broke open a small safe and stole a chattle mortgage and a note, both of which Mrs. Robinson held. Neither was worth anything to the thieves, and duplicates of both have been received from the county clerk.

Sold Western Horses.

Lewis Compton, who last week brought a carload of western horses here from Hill City, S. Dak., has sold the last of them and returned to his home. The lowest price paid for one by Dixon persons was $16, the highest $69.

—Ray Jacobs went to Sterling this morning.

—Henry Ahrens went to Ashton this morning.

—W. J. McAlpine went to Geneva this morning.

—Roy Rossiter after a visit here returned to Chicago yesterday.

—James Ballou and George Cupp will attend the circus in Sterling tonight.

—George Stackpole and lady drove to Sterling today and took in the circus.

—The Misses Perkins and Trein left today for a business trip to New York City.

—Charles A. Weil, daughter Genevieve and son Kenneth went to Camp Grove today.

—Mrs. W. E. Appleford and children are visiting at the home of Mrs. Anna G. Howell for a few weeks.

—Ed O'Malley and Clarence Floto are now employed at the E. S. Miller wholesale and retail grocery store.

—Mrs. J. H. Russell started today on her return to her home at Malone, Texas, after a visit with Prof. and Mrs. L. W. Miller.

—A Sunday boy came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Hess, 1219 Palmyra avenue, so it was a son-day in that household.

—Prof. and Mrs. L. W. Miller and family drove to Pawpaw this afternoon to visit the professor's father, S. B. Miller, for several days.

—Mrs. Della Englehart and Miss Verna Belle Roberts neices of Dr. E. M. Brown from Kirksville, Mo., are guests at the home of the doctor.

—Miss Mayme Talty is visiting friends at Freeport and before returning home she will also go to Chicago where she will be the guest of her brother.

—A young married couple of Sublette agreed to argue fully and frankly some question every morning in order to learn more of each other. The first question happened to be: "Can a woman dress on $70 a year?" He took the affirmative and when last seen he had climbed into the hay loft and pulled the ladder after him.

—Rev. W. W. Deihl of Sterling preached a sermon Sunday against Alexander Dowie and Divine Healing. In the course of his remarks he said that when he was once approached by one of Dowie's book agents, he was asked why divine healing did not interest him. Mr. Deihl's answer to the woman carries a world of argument against the fanatisism. He said, "You cannot interest me, because I have buried too many people whom Dowie has cured."

Among birds the swan lives to be the oldest, in extreme cases reaching 300 years. The falcon has been known to live 162 years. An eagle died in 1819 which had been caught 104 years before and was then quite old. A white headed vulture, which was caught in 1706, died in the aviary at Schonbrun, near Vienna, in 1824. Parrots live more than a century. Water birds have a long life, exceeding that of several generations of men. Ravens also live over a hundred years.

In captivity magpies live from twenty to twenty-five years, and still longer in freedom. The common hen attains the age of from fifteen to twenty years. Doves live ten years and the little singing birds from eight to seventeen years. The nightingale's life is the shortest, ten years being the longest, and next comes the blackbird, which never lives longer than fifteen years.

A Tough Steak.

"On the other side of the Rio Grande," said a traveler, "meat is cheap, but the best cuts of Mexican beef are tougher than rhinoceros hide. When I first went to Mexico, I ordered a tenderloin at a hotel in Durango, but I couldn't cut it to save my neck. I told the waiter it wouldn't do, and he removed it.

"Presently, however, he returned, accompanied by the proprietor of the hotel, and laid the platter on the table. 'What's the matter with the steak?' asked the hotel man in Spanish. 'Tough,' said I. 'Why, I can hardly stick a fork into it—much less a knife.'

"Mine host flapped it over with the flat of the knife and eyed it dubiously. 'I'm sorry,' he said, 'but it's the best in the house. At any rate, I can't take it back. It's bent.'"

Her Very Clear Thoughts.

"Well, aunty, what are your thochts aboot marryin'?" asked a young woman in Scotland the other day of her aunt, a decent body who had reached the shady side of life without having committed matrimony.

"'Deed, lassie," frankly replied the old lady, "I've had but three thochts aboot it a' my days, an' the last is like to be the langest. First, then, when I was young, like yoursel', I thocht, 'Wha'll I tak'?' Then, as time began to wear by I thocht, 'Wha'll I get?' An' after I got my leg broken wi' that whumel oot o' Saunders McDrunthie's cart my thochts syne have bin, 'Wha'll tak' me?'"

His Greatest Objection.

"You object to Mormonism and other forms of polygamy on moral grounds, I suppose?"

"Well, partly, partly, but not entirely."

"What else should make it offensive to you?"

"What else! Why, great mackerel, think of coming home late from the club and having to make explanations to ten or fifteen wives!"—Chicago Post.

Purely Agricultural.

Caller—For goodness' sake, what's that noise?

Hauskeep—Girl next door is having her voice cultivated.

Caller—Huh! What are they doing—plowing it?

Hauskeep—I don't know, but the sound of it is harrowing.—Philadelphia Press.

Household Maps.

The map of the United States which the New York Central railroad passenger department has been publishing in the varions newspapers of the county, showing important places of interest on its lines, is indeed a happy thought as well as a gild-edged advertisement. We are reliably informed that the map, which is 11x16 inches, is now being generally used by families in the rural districts as household maps and as a rule is the only map about the premises.—Jersey Shore, Pa Herald. T 1t

RELICS OF EARLY DAYS.

Rail Fences and Dugout Canoes Survive Civilization's March.

One of the remarkable features of country life in America is the singular persistence of the rail fence and the dugout canoe. No matter how thickly settled a section may become or how long it may have been settled, these two survivors of early settlement linger on as stubbornly as ever. Today in the thickest settled parts of New England and New York the rail fence is met with, while the shad fishermen of the Potomac and James rivers and Chesapeake bay, on the banks of which the first English settlements in America were established, still manufacture and employ the old dugout canoe in making the rounds of their shad nets.

The dugout canoe is the simplest and most primitive water craft known and was used by prehistoric man, both in this country, Europe and Asia. It is made out of a log of wood by trimming the outside down to the proper proportions of a boat and by "digging out" the inside with an adz and by the aid of fire. The Potomac river dugout is today pretty much the same as it was in the days of Powhatan and differs from the general run of dugout canoes in the absence of a curved bow and stern and in having rather high sides, which rise to a summit from either end of the boat, being highest in the middle, where the seat is placed.—Washington Post.

Canny In Second Engagement.

For years a young man and young woman had been engaged, and each had economized with a view of having the more to spend when they should marry. Six months ago, however, the engagement was broken, and shortly afterward the young woman became the fiancee of another man. This man she encourages to spend his money lavishly—on her. He has bought her beautiful silver for her toilet table, the latest design and engraved with her initials; a handsome leather traveling bag completely fitted out, rugs, books and other articles to make home comfortable.

"No more economizing for me," says the girl. "If he invests so much in me, we won't be so likely to quarrel, and certainly he will not have the money to spend on another girl," which is the wisdom that rules sentiment in these modern days.—New York Press.

Those Dull Ducks.

I recall Mr. Lowell telling, jocosely, in an after dinner speech in Cambridge how he met an acquaintance (of dubious standing) whose cheerful face and happy demeanor led him to ask the cause of such exuberant felicity.

"Why," said the genial smiler, "I've discovered a way to make my fortune. We all know that the reason for the fine flavor of the wild duck is the wild celery on which it feeds. Now, I propose to feed it to the domestic duck and supply the market."

Some weeks later, on meeting his acquaintance again, Mr. Lowell found him quite depressed and inconsolable. "Why are you looking so unhappy? I thought the last time I saw you that you were on the point of making your fortune with ducks. Wouldn't it work?"

"No," was the reply; "the things won't eat it."—Atlantic.

Tartly Answered.

The principal of a certain high school tells a joke on himself with much enjoyment. One day during an examination, when he was visiting the various rooms, he stopped to ask a very bright boy a sum in algebra, and, although the problem was comparatively easy, he could not answer it. The principal remarked with some show of severity:

"My boy, you ought to be able to do that. At your age George Washington was a surveyor."

The boy looked him straight in the eye and answered:

"Yes, sir, and at your age he was president of the United States."

The conversation dropped at that point.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Men and Apes.

Were it not, as Huxley says, that "the ignorance of the so called educated classes is colossal," there might be need for apology in restatement of the fact that man is not descended from the ape. The relationship between them is lateral, not lineal, both being offshoots of the same stock, but each remaining, of course in very different degrees of development, isolated groups of mammals.—Edward Clodd's "Thomas Henry Huxley."

Punctuate It.

Take this sentence, printed nakedly: "It was and I said not of." As it stands it is enough to give the reader vertigo before he grasps its import. Properly stopped and buoyed with commas, it is a perfectly simple and natural sentence, as you will see when you have got the grip of your senses. —London Chronicle.

Winning a Kiss.

Aunt Hannah—I saw that young man kiss you, Jane. How did it come about?

Jane—In the most natural way in the world, auntie. He asked me if I would be offended if he kissed me, and I told him it was impossible for me to say until I knew what it was like.—Boston Transcript.

A Pair of Them.

He—The great trouble with Gabley is that he talks too much.

She—That's strange! When he has been with me, he scarcely said a word.

He—Oh, he is too much of a gentleman to interrupt.

Each decision you make, however trifling it may be, will influence every decision you will have to make, however important it may be.

Employes Locked Out

A lock-out at the plow works of the Parlin & Orendorff Company at Canton, Ill., yesterday morning threw 700 men out of employment. Secretary U. G. Orendorff states the shut-down is for an indefinite time. Last week the Maleable ironworkers went on a strike to force the company to abolish the contract, which permits them to hold back 10 per cent of the men's wages until July 1, 1903. The employes of the other departments intended to make a demand this morning for the abolishment of the contract, but the company forestalled their action by shutting down the factory.

WILL MORGAN HELP?

People's Alliance Committee Goes to New York City to See the Financier.

HIS AID WANTED IN THE STRIKE

Riotous Crowd Prevents a Mine from Starting—Proscription Comes into Operation.

New York, Aug. 26.—Yesterday a committee of three young men called at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., but Morgan had not arrived at his office, and the committee left without seeing any member of the firm. Neither of the young men would speak of himself or the purpose of his visit, but it is understood that they constitute the committee of the People's Alliance, of Hazleton, Pa., which is said to have a plan for the settlement of the strike.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

Troops Move Into Lansford.

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 26.—A portion of the first battalion of the Twelfth regiment, stationed here, was moved into Lansford at daybreak this morning to protect non-union men on their way to work. Last evening Joseph King, a non-union man, went to Lansford and swore out a warrant for the arrest of a dozen strikers who, he alleges, threw a lariat over him when he was on his way to work yesterday and held him a prisoner until he was rescued by the coal and iron police. With one exception all the men arrested are foreigners.

Riotous Doings at Hazleton.

Hazleton, Pa., Aug. 26.—Warrants have been sworn out for the arrest of many strikers who participated in a riot at No. 40 shaft yesterday. This riot was for the purpose of preventing the resumption of work at the shaft and it succeeded. It was not so much the riot that prevented work as the collecting together of 3,000 strikers and their presence all around the mines and along the roads, which were "picketed," very thickly with strikers. It was these pickets that caused the riot; they attacked a young man who was going to work, and when his father, a coal and iron policeman, went to his assistance, they stabbed and kicked him. His injuries are not serious because the knife struck a rib.

Discrimination in the Schools.

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 26.—The school board of Mahanoy township yesterday removed six of the oldest teachers in the township. The reason given was that members of the families of these teachers were non-union mine workers. Among those affected is Miss Anna Beddall, sister of Joseph Beddall, who was killed during the riot of July 30. The board unanimously decided that applicants in any way connected with non-union workmen should not receive appointments.

WANTS MITCHELL TO PROCLAIM

Request Made of the U. M. W. Chief by a Coal Operator.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 26.—N. W. Anthony, president of the North American Coal company, of Scranton, addressed a letter to President Mitchell, of the miners' union, yesterday, requesting him to issue a proclamation to his followers warning them not to interfere with the operation of the company's washery when work is started tomorrow. It is not likely that a proclamation will be issued. The letter has been referred to the district officers of the United Mine Workers at Scranton.

The citizens of Plymouth yesterday bought a carload of flour for the striking miners employed at the Woodward and Avondale mines of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company. The flour will be distributed this week. It was reported that the Avondale mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company resumed operations on a small scale yesterday. A small amount of coal was run through the breaker.

Chicago, Aug. 26. — Montgomery Ward & Co. is the second of the mail order houses to have a strike of the freight packers. The thirty-five freight packers employed by the firm went on strike yesterday. The packers at Lyon Bros. were only out a day when the firm gave in, and the men say they can tie up the big Michigan avenue house in the same way.

PRESIDENT AT BOSTON

Makes an Extended Speech Largely Devoted to the Question of Trusts.

THRONGS AT NAHANT AND LYNN

Compliments for His Cabinet Officers—An Early Start for the Pine Tree State.

Boston, Aug. 26.—The week's work for President Roosevelt in his trip through New England began in earnest yesterday afternoon when he departed from the summer home of the junior senator of Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge, at Nahant, and amid the enthusiasm of the greatest number of people he has faced since the Pittsburg visit on July 4 rode into Lynn under cavalry escort and spoke from a platform at the city hall. Then he was taken to Boston by special train, and on arrival went to Symphony hall, there addressing a great gathering of Boston business men. His speech here was devoted almost entirely to consideration of the trust question. From the hall the president went to Hotel Touraine, where a little later in the evening he was the guest of Governor Crane at dinner. This morning bright and early the presidential party started for Maine.

WILLIAM H. MOODY.

Nahant and Lynn Divide Honors.

Nahant and Lynn again divided honors in welcoming the president. He spent a quiet morning and afternoon at the Lodge house, and at 2:30 p. m. started for the platform in Nahant, where he was to deliver his address. Simultaneously with the moving of the procession a battery nearby fired a salute of twenty-one guns. In the carriage with the president was the committee of selectmen; Senator Lodge and Secretary Moody were in the next carriage, followed by Secretary Cortelyou and the other members of the party. As the president appeared on the platform he was loudly cheered. About fifteen minutes were consumed in his address, in which he reiterated his advice given in previous speeches on the journey that success in life must depend on one's own individual effort.

PAYS A COMPLIMENT TO LYNN.

Also to Secretary Moody—Trust Laws Are To Be Enforced.

The drive from Nahant to Lynn occupied about twenty minutes. At the city line the president was met by Mayor Shepherd and a committee and escorted to the city hall by two companies of the militia, and one of the naval brigade. Mayor Shepherd introduced the president. It was perhaps the largest crowd which he has addressed since his visit to Pittsburg. After thanking the men of the National guard who had acted as his escort the president said there was but little he cared to say, because he had come to Massachusetts less to teach than to learn. He said that Lynn had been rendered a great city by the fact that the individual citizens in it know how to work and did alike their duty in private and in public life. "A government can do something," he said; "it can do a good deal, but it can never begin to do as much for an individual as the individual can do for the government."

He then referred to the ability of Moody as secretary of the navy, Moody was on the platform. "In the navy," he remarked, "we have got to have ships and good guns, but if you have not got anything else the ships and the guns are worthless. You have got to have a man behind the gun," and at this he turned to Moody. From the city hall the procession was taken to the station, where there was a wait for the special train. The president held an informal reception on the platform. The president asked to be introduced to Harry E. Stiles, chief musician of the Eighth Regiment band, and thanked him for rendering "Garry Owen," which was played at the president's request on the way from the city hall to the station. As the train pulled out on its way to Boston cheers were given.

RAINED ON THE BOSTON CROWDS

But They Cheered the Chief Magistrate as He Passed.

A brisk shower of rain failed to discourage the crowds that stood along the streets of Boston through which President Roosevelt passed on his way to Symphony hall, where he addressed an audience of 5,000 on the problems surrounding the framing and enforcement of laws limiting the powers of industrial combinations. From the moment of the president's arrival at the North Union station from Lynn, at 4:40 o'clock, he was warmly acclaimed. He was officially welcomed by Governor Crane and Mayor Collins. The party was escorted to carriages, and guarded by the first battalion of cavalry proceeded to the hall.

Here every seat and every inch of standing room had been taken. To the strains of "Hail to the Chief," played on the great organ, the president appeared upon the stage, but the organ was soon silenced by the spontaneous wave of greeting. With a few formal remarks Governor Crane introduced the president, who made a forty-minute discourse on the question of suppressing illegal combinations. The president and those with him then left the hall while the organ played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Although rain was falling large crowds cheered the president on the way to the Hotel Touraine, where he spent the night. At the hotel the president was the guest of Governor Crane at a dinner. The guests numbered about twenty-five, and included Mayor Collins, Secretary Moody and Senator Lodge.

During his speech here the president referred to the enforcement of the laws, saying: "As far as the anti-trust laws go they will be enforced. * * * Every suit that is undertaken will be begun because the great lawyer and upright man whom we are so fortunate as to have as attorney general, Mr. Knox, believes that there is a violation of the law which we can get at, and when the suit is undertaken it won't be compromised, excepting on the basis that the government wins."

TWO HAVE A CLOSE CALL

Rescue That Contains the Kernel of a Future Matrimonial Deal.

Monteagle, Tenn., Aug. 26.—At Forest Point about midnight, Miss Vinnie Tucker, a prominent young lady of Decherd, and one of a party on a mountain trip, stepped over the cliff. Sidney Cowan, a young Nashville man, sprang to her rescue. He caught her, but too late to prevent her fall, being dragged over the edge of the precipice, the two going down together and landing on an incline thirty or forty feet below. Though Cowan was badly shaken up he was still conscious, and as his body rolled down the ledge he caught on a bush which stayed his progress.

Miss Tucker, bleeding and unconscious, was falling in the path he had come. As she passed he caught and held her, their flight ending three feet from the edge of a 300-foot drop. To have gone over would have meant instant death. Their companions quickly organized a rescue party, descending to the ledge by a narrow, circuitous path. Cowan was found clutching the girl's clothing in one hand and a clump of bushes in the other. Miss Tucker was insensible.

KATHRYN'S BURGLAR

By Frank S. Chiswick

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

Kathryn never would have done it had her brother Tom been home, because he would have laughed at her. Nor would her stern father of Scotch ancestry tolerate such absurd nonsense as the observance of heathen customs on All Saints' eve. Just the year before he had objected to her attending a Halloween frolic simply because he did not approve of perpetuating silly superstitions.

But Tom was safe at Harvard, undergoing the first anxieties of an ambitious freshman, and her father had been summoned abroad to look after a big contract. So, motherless, Kathryn was free to walk down stairs backward or perform any other Halloween feat. Just at present she was standing in front of the old fashioned gilt edged mirror in the drawing room. All around her was midnight stillness.

"I hope the face of my true love comes to me."

She murmured the ancient formula approved by generations of lovelorn damsels and to complete the charm slowly munched an apple, half apprehensive and wholly filled with wonder as to whether the apparition conjured up by the invocation would be clean shaved or mustached. Would it be the features of Frank Handy or Chester Raymond? Both had asked for her hand, and really she did not—

What was that? Yes, it must be a masculine face, with bonnie blue eyes, appearing just above her own curls. A little, smothered shriek, and she swung round to confront a personable chap with crisp blond hair and a face which, save for a haggard look, would have been more than ordinarily attractive. His eyes had a subtle expression that made her think of Tom, and his dress proclaimed that he had once moved in good society.

Following the first spasm of apprehension, she felt a sensation of relief that the picture reflected in the glass was that of a very pretty girl whose chestnut hair formed dainty contrast with a fluffy negligee of pale lavender.

The stranger raised his cap. "Pardon the intrusion," he began. "I had no intention of attracting your attention, but when I opened the door I could not resist the temptation to help out fate, even though the forced prediction might displease you."

Kathryn stared at him. "How did you get in without my hearing you?" she demanded. "I locked all the doors hours ago."

"That is my business," he explained. "No," he went on as she drew herself up, "I did not mean to indicate that it was none of yours. I merely mean that it is my occupation to get into houses with as little disturbance to the occupants as possible."

A wave of red swept over her face. "So you are just a common burglar?" she demanded, with icy scorn.

He flinched at the disgust she did not seek to conceal, but in a moment his easy assurance reasserted itself. "No, quite an uncommon one, I assure you. In fact, I am merely a tyro, and a pretty bad one at that, I imagine. You see, I was not brought up to a respectable trade, and when I was thrown upon my own resources I had to do the best I could. I sought everywhere for work, but my family friends remembered the time when I led a riotous life and would not have me, while others seemed to think that I did not mean what I said when I asked for the simple work I could perform. No man wanted to hire a porter who wore more fashionable clothes than he did, and I couldn't tell him that I had no others."

"Still, that is no excuse for becoming a burglar."

"No," he admitted, "but yesterday it came to a choice between the poorhouse and a rich one, and when I passed your house this afternoon I heard you tell a friend you would be all alone save for the servant. I did not intend to take much, just enough to get me to Chicago, and I never supposed that you would be trailing about this time of night. Then, you see, when a man has been practically starving for two days there is"—

She flashed a sharp glance at him. "Do you mean to tell me that you have starved to death?" she demanded.

"Not quite that, or I should not be here, but if I remember right the last meal I had was Tuesday morning. This is Thursday. It might have been Monday; I never was good at ancient history, but I think it was Tuesday."

Kathryn picked up a quaint silver candlestick. "Come right along," she commanded. "You should have gone to the poorhouse, but I suppose you are foolishly proud."

He followed, his eyes resting admiringly upon the little lavender form in front. Here was a girl who was not afraid of burglars and who carried herself as fearlessly as though she were entertaining a guest.

In the dining room she laid out a dainty lunch. Then she sat herself down on the other side of the table, nor did she speak till the first keen craving for food had been satisfied.

"You don't look a bit like a burglar," she said musingly as she looked at the well built man opposite. "Somehow you look as though you were cut out for a leader of men."

"If I keep this sort of thing up," he responded with grim humor, "I am apt to wind up leading a chain gang."

She sprang up with a little cry. "You mustn't keep it up. You must get work and make your people proud of you. You must not go to prison."

"I don't know," he responded, regarding her excitement wonderingly. "It's the only boarding house I know of where you are not put out if you fail to pay your bill, and, apparently, it's the only place where I can find work."

"You should not say those things," reprovingly.

"I know I should not, but when you have done your best and the whole world seems to be against you, when you starve till you are made desperate, there come moments of temporary insanity, when all sense of right and wrong is lost. When I came here, I fully intended to get enough money to take me out west, where there might be a better chance for me, but when I saw you before the glass in that violet colored dress somehow you made me think of my sister—and she's dead. So are the others, thank God!"

Kathryn rose abruptly and went into the library. Would she call for help? The man did not care much. He simply sat watching the doorway through which she had disappeared. He was very tired, and it did not matter much now anyhow.

She came back with a card in her hand.

"You know where the Hewitson mills are, don't you?" He nodded. "Mr. Hewitson is my father." Again he nodded. "Take this to the manager. I think there's an opening in the shipping department. You will probably have to start at a ridiculous salary, but"—

He caught her hand and pressed it to his lips as a loyal subject might kiss the hand of a revered sovereign.

"Oh, I will go. Only give me the chance, and I'll show what I can do." He felt something folded under the card. He looked down, and his face flushed a deep purple. He laid the bill on the table.

"Oh, but you must take it till you get your first salary. You can't starve."

"No, not that. I can't take it; but, please God, I'll show you that I can lead a decent life and justify your faith in me." And, waving his cap, he disappeared, as he had come, through the dining room window.

* * * * * * *

Three years have passed swiftly for Kathryn; but, oddly enough, she has tried no more Halloween charms. This evening she stands in the square hall watching the storm which is ushering in November. A sleigh dashes up to the door, and her father comes in, shaking himself like a great polar bear.

"I've invited young Douglas up to dinner this evening, Kathryn. I didn't think it necessary to phone you. Just have an extra place laid. He pushed through that Rothberger deal in splendid shape, and in consequence I've given him the promotion he deserved. By the way, Kathryn, where did you meet that chap? He was a lucky find for me."

Kathryn does not answer, but with a conscious blush looks into the drawing room, where the softly shaded lights play on the gilt edged mirror. The bell rings, but she does not wait to receive the guest in the hall. He finds her in the dim drawing room before the mirror. She is looking over her shoulder, and she wears a lavender gown.

A Wonderful Sense of Smell.

The buzzard's wonderful sense of smell is a curious subject that has often been discussed, the discussion of the matter having resulted in a general uniformity of opinion among scientists that they locate their food by their sense of smell alone.

A noted biologist says that he has noticed that in Florida they never leave the roots where the night is spent, especially on damp, foggy mornings, until the moisture has been dried by the sun. They then move slowly across the wind until a "scent" is struck, when they move more slowly "up the wind" until the carrion is located. Sometimes they will drift down the wind past their prey until they have struck the scent, which they follow up until they have found the object of their search, sometimes in the densest thickets.

The biologist says that he has upon several occasions killed wild hogs in the thickets, and, after dressing them and taking what meat he wished, would see twenty or more buzzards coming down with the wind. On one occasion they had discovered some animal remains he had covered up and on another had found a dead snake which he had buried.

The Best Works.

A story is told of one of the old time pillars of a New England church who held out firmly for a long time against the innovation of an organ, but when he finally yielded did so without reserve.

From violent opposition he became the most strenuous of all the congregation as to the fineness of the instrument to be purchased.

"Seems to me you aren't very consistent," said one economical brother reproachfully. "Here a month ago you couldn't speak harsh enough about organs, and now you go to advocating extra expense in getting the best that's to be had."

"See here," said the deacon grimly, "if we're going to worship the Lord by machinery, I don't want to putter round with any second rate running gear!"

When You Travel.

Don't wait until you reach the station, a few minutes before it is time for the train to start, before you find out the time for starting, arriving at your destination and the time of connection. Other passengers wish to take the same train and must buy tickets. And don't argue the question of the price of your ticket with the ticket seller. The price is settled by the managers and directors of the road. If the price is unjust, address a communication to them and stay at home till the price is satisfactory or pay it and keep still.

GOING THROUGH A CASTLE

[Original.]

"I am going to visit the castle if I have to go alone," said the American girl in England. "These old baronial seats are splendid."

"But you won't be admitted. The castle is not open to visitors."

"I can try."

She left the party over their luncheon at the King's Arms and with the independence of a true American girl walked a short distance to the entrance of the castle. It was one of the oldest in England and was protected by a moat, a drawbridge and a portcullis. She stood near the end of the drawbridge peering wistfully in through the great arched gateway. A man in riding boots, corduroy trousers, spurs, a whip in his hand, a short box coat of a dun color and a derby hat came out, crossed the drawbridge and was about to pass her, a dozen feet away.

"Is the castle open to visitors?" she asked.

The man stopped and raised his hand to his hat deferentially. He lifted it slightly, which surprised her, as servants usually salute by a touch.

"Not at present," he said, replying to her question.

"Oh, dear, I am so disappointed! I have come all the way from America to see it."

"This particular castle?"

"All of them. These English castles are more interesting to me than anything in Europe."

The man pulled a watch from his vest pocket, glanced at its face, returned it and said:

"If you will come with me, I will show you over the place."

"You? Have you authority to take in visitors when the public are not admitted?"

"I have."

"And his grace the duke will not be offended?"

"Anything I do goes with the duke. He is very good natured."

The man turned, and she walked with him.

"You are in his service?"

"No."

They passed over the drawbridge and under the archway.

"This masonry is Norman," said the man, "and was put up nine centuries ago by Hugh"—

"Nine hundred years old! Just think of it! Is all the castle as old as that?"

"The square tower over there is. It was built at the same time. The other parts were erected from time to time, the last feudal building having been erected in 1525. That part of the wall across the quadrangle was breached by Cromwell's men. You can see where the idiots repaired it with a different stone."

"The idiots! Do you think his grace would like to hear you speak so disrespectfully of his ancestors?"

"Oh, the duke is very much dissatisfied with many things his ancestors have done, just as I am."

"Is he so much wiser than they? Doesn't their blood flow in his veins?"

"The next time he makes a guy of himself I'll put it to him that way."

"You must be on singularly confidential terms with your master."

"My master! Why, the man can't even control himself."

"What are his especial vices?"

"If you wish me to employ the limited time at our disposal in cataloguing his vices, I will do so, but I would rather show you his castle."

"You are right. Go on."

"This building, in the very center of the inclosure, was erected during the reign of Elizabeth. It is a useless edifice, very much in the way, and should be torn down."

"That would be a pity, but if it is in the way why doesn't the present duke tear it down?"

"Indecision is one of his vices."

"The place doesn't seem well kept up. Many of the buildings have a tumbledown appearance."

"That's because the money has all gone out of the family. There is but one way for the owners of these rundown estates to repair and keep them up. That is to marry a fortune. The duke has no points to recommend him to the fair sex. Such a match would be impossible for him."

"Is he young?"

"About my age."

"And good looking?"

"No better looking than I am."

By this time they had reached the postern. She took out her purse.

"We're not allowed to take money for showing the old trap," said the man.

"The old trap! Well, tell the duke he had better go to America for a wife to help him restore his castle. I don't know but I would take the contract myself."

"Have you the means?"

"Yes, and plenty to spare."

"You stop"—

"At the King's Arms."

"I'll inform his grace of the opportunity."

"If you do, I'll deny ever having said such a thing."

"He has the same confidence in me as in his own ears."

She walked back to the King's Arms and told the rest of her party how she had been shown over the castle. She was somewhat startled during the morning to receive a note from the duke containing a proposition of marriage. His grace followed up the proposal with a call and proved to be the man who had been her guide. This did not prevent her accepting him, and social England was astonished at the announcement that the Duke of —— would marry a multimillionairess from the Pacific coast. The union proved to be a love match.

HE GAVE UP HIS LIFE

After Giving Up His Unloving Wife to Another Man.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 26.—After giving up his wife to another man whom she had learned to love, William W. Hately committed suicide in Omaha, leaving his children several thousand dollars for which his life was insured, and a fortune which will come to him from England. Hately was a clerk in a dry goods store in Omaha, and two years ago went to Montana, taking his family with him. While there his wife fell in love with Charles Stierle, a millionaire of Newton, Mont.

Seeing the advantages which his children could have with Stierle's money, Hately consented to a divorce, his wife taking the children and marrying the millionaire. Hately returned to Omaha, and brooding over the affair is supposed to have caused temporary insanity. Sunday morning he shot himself through the head and died instantly. He wrote a last letter to his former wife, protesting his love for her.

HE HAD A SYSTEM

But It Has Cost Him His Job in the Treasury Department.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Secretary Shaw has ordered the dismissal from the treasury department of Lorenzo G. Warfield, a clerk in the division of bookkeeping and warrants. The attention of the department was called a few days ago to a circular said to have been issued by an organization of which Warfield was treasurer.

The circular gave the plans of a proposed association by which stockholders could probably reap large returns from a scheme to play the races. One clause in the circular cited the fact that Warfield held an important position in the treasury department. The dismissal wss based upon the use of the department's name in this connection.

JUMP FROM EADS' BRIDGE

Taken by an Aged Woman Who Was Tired of Life.

St. Louis, Aug. 26.—An unknown woman, apparently 60 years old, jumped from Eads' streets bridge into the Mississippi late last night. W. E. Fitzgerald, crossing the bridge, saw her on the railing and seized her. She told him she simply wanted to look at the river below.

He walked away, and turning saw her spring into the darkness and heard the splash as her body struck the water. This is the first instance in local police annals of a woman committing suicide from Eads' bridge.

Wheeler Having a Good Time.

London, Aug. 26.—General Joe Wheeler, who is now in London, is having such a good time on this side of the water that he has little idea of getting back to America before the end of September at least. The general and Lord Kitchener are to be the guests of honor at the famous cutlers' feast at Sheffield, known as the "banquet of the north," which will be held toward the end of this month.

Demented War Veteran in Custody.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 26.—General Edwin R. Niles, of Goshen, Ind., was arrested at a hotel here for stealing a government mail pouch which had been dropped by a passing street car at a transfer point. The bag was later found intact. General Niles was placed in jail. It was found that he was demented. Niles is a civil war veteran, and was formerly a prominent northern Indiana attorney.

Our Business In Locomotives.

Washington, Aug. 26.—A report issued by the census office shows a capital of $40,813,793 invested in the manufacture of locomotives in the twenty-eight locomotive works reporting for the United States in 1900. The value of the products is returned as $35,200,048, to produce which involved an outlay of $10,899,614 for wages and $20,174,395 for materials.

Bridge Superintendent Drowns.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 26.—News is received here of the drowning at Burlington, Ia., of C. P. Olson, for twenty-five years superintendent of bridges of the Burlington railroad system west of the Missouri river. Olson's headquarters were at Lincoln.

Siler To Be Referee.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—George Siler, of Chicago, has been agreed upon as referee for the middleweight championship contest between Tommy Ryan and "Kid" Carter to be fought before the International Athletic club, of Fort Erie, Sept. 15.

More Boers Sail from Bermuda.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Aug. 26.—The British transport Staffordshire sailed yesterday for Cape Town with 1,060 Boers who had been prisoners in the detention camps on these islands.
